2 BASIS OF PREPARATION

a. Statement of compliance

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Indonesian Financial Accounting Standards ("SAK").

b. The Company's directors approved the consolidated financial statements for issuance on 3 May 2019.

c. Basis of measurement

The consolidated financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis using the historical cost concept, except where the accounting standards require fair value measurement.

d. Functional and presentation currency

The consolidated financial statements are presented in full amount of Rupiah, which is the Company and subsidiary's functional currency.

e. Use of judgments, estimates and assumptions

The preparation of consolidated financial statements requires management to make judgments, estimates and assumptions that affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, income and expenses. Actual results may differ from the estimated amounts.

Estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to estimates are recognized prospectively.

Below are the critical judgments, apart from those involving estimations that the management have made in the process of applying the accounting policies and that have the most significant effect on the amounts recognized in the consolidated financial statements.

Key Sources of Estimation Uncertainty

The key assumptions concerning future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the end of the reporting period, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year are discussed below:

Impairment Loss on Receivables

The Company and subsidiary assesses its receivables for impairment at each reporting date. In determining whether an impairment loss should be recorded in profit or loss, management makes judgment as to whether there is objective evidence that loss event has occurred. Management also makes judgment as to the methodology and assumptions for estimating the amount and timing of future cash flows which are reviewed regularly to reduce any difference between loss estimate and actual loss.

The carrying amounts of receivables are disclosed in Note 5.

Allowance for Decline in Value of Inventories

The Company and subsidiary provides allowance for decline in value of inventories based on estimated future usage of such inventories. While it is believed that the assumptions used in the estimation of the allowance for decline in value of inventories are appropriate and reasonable, significant changes in these assumptions may materially affect the assessment of the allowance for decline in value of inventories, which ultimately will impact the result of the Company and subsidiary's operations.

The carrying amounts and provision for decline in value of inventories are disclosed in Note 6.

Estimated Useful Lives of Property, Plant and Equipment and Intangible Assets

The useful life of each item of the Company and subsidiary's property, plant and equipment and intangible assets are estimated based on the period over which the asset is expected to be available for use. Such estimation is based on internal technical evaluation and experience with similar assets. The estimated useful life of each asset is reviewed periodically and updated if expectations differ from previous estimates due to physical wear and tear, technical or commercial obsolescence and legal or other limits on the use of the asset. It is possible, however, that future results of operations could be materially affected by changes in the amounts and timing of recorded expenses brought about by changes in the factors mentioned above.

A change in the estimated useful life of any item of property and equipment and intangible assets would affect the recorded depreciation and amortization expense and decrease in the carrying values of these assets.

The carrying amounts of property, plant and equipment and intangible assets are disclosed in Note 7 and 8, respectively.

Employee benefits obligation

The determination of employee benefits obligation depends on selection of certain assumptions used by the actuary for the calculation of the liability. These assumptions include discount rate and rate of increase in salaries. Although the assumptions of the Company and subsidiary are considered appropriate and reasonable, significant changes in fact or significant changes in assumptions used can significantly affect the employee benefits obligation of the Company and subsidiary.

The carrying amount of employee benefits obligation is disclosed in Note 21.

Provision for buy back guarantee

The Company determines the provision for buy back guarantee based on the estimated losses that will be incurred in case of default by end customer. In estimating the provision, management considers the rate of default, cost of repossession of vehicles, cost of repairing and other incremental costs and estimated selling price to sell the repossessed vehicles. While it is believed that the assumptions used in the estimation of provision for buy back guarantee are appropriate and reasonable, significant changes in these assumptions may materially affect the assessment of the provision, which ultimately will impact the result of the Company and subsidiary's operations. Each quarter, the Company and subsidiary re-evaluate the estimates to assess the adequacy of the recorded provisions and adjust the amounts as necessary.

The carrying amount of provision for buy back guarantee is disclosed in Note 13.

f. Basis of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements incorporate the financial statements of the Company and the financial statement of entities in which the Company has the ability to control the entities, both directly or indirectly.

A subsidiary is an entity controlled by the Company. The Company controls an entity when it is exposed to, or has rights to, variable returns from its involvement with the entity and has the ability to affect those returns through its power over the entity.

A subsidiary is consolidated from the date on which effective control is obtained by the Company, and is no longer consolidated from the date such control ceases.

Non-controlling interest in the assets of a subsidiary is identified at the date of business combination and afterwards are adjusted by proportion of changes in equity of subsidiary and presented as a part of equity in the consolidated statement of financial position.

Non-controlling interest in the total comprehensive income of a subsidiary is identified at its portion and presented as a part of total attributable comprehensive income in the consolidated statements of profit or loss and other comprehensive income.

Where control of an entity is obtained during a financial period, its results are included in the consolidated financial statements from the date on which control commences. Where control ceases during a financial period, its results are included in the consolidated financial statements for the part of the year during which control existed.

The accounting policies adopted in preparing the consolidated financial statements have been consistently applied by the Company and subsidiary in all material respects.

All material transactions and balances between consolidated companies have been eliminated, including unrealized gains and losses arising from intercompany transactions.

Changes in the Company's ownership interest in a subsidiary that do not result in the loss of control are accounted for as equity transactions. When control over a previous subsidiary is lost, any remaining interest in the entity is re-measured at fair value and the resulting gains or loss is recognized in profit or loss.

- PSAK 72, "Revenue from Contracts with Customer"
- PSAK 73, "Leases"

As of the issuance of these consolidated financial statements, management has not determined the extent of the retrospective impact, if any, that the future adoption of these standards will have on the Company and subsidiary's financial position and operating results.

3 SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accounting policies set out below have been applied consistently to all periods presented in these consolidated financial statements.

a. Cash equivalents

Cash equivalents consist of time deposits with maturities of three months or less from the date of placement.

b. Inventory valuation

Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realizable value; cost is determined using the weighted average method, and includes expenditures incurred in acquiring the inventories and other costs incurred in bringing them to their existing location and condition.

Net realizable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less the estimated costs of completion and the estimated costs necessary to make the sale.

c. Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment are measured using the cost model, i.e. initially measured at cost and subsequently carried net of accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is applied using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets as follows:

IT equipment	4 Years
Furniture, fixtures and office equipment	4 - 8 Years
Vehicles	8 Years
Building improvements	10 Years
Factory equipment	4 Years
Tools	4 Years

d. Intangible assets

Purchased intangible assets, which comprise computer software licenses, have finite useful lives, and are measured at cost less accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses. Amortization is recognized in profit or loss on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives of intangible assets, from the date they are available for use. The estimated useful life of the Company and subsidiary's computer software license is 4 years.

e. Leases

Leasing arrangements in which risks and rewards of ownership are not conveyed to the Company and subsidiary are classified as operating leases and treated as an executory contract.

Operating lease payments are recognized as an expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term, except where another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern in which economic benefits from the leased asset are consumed. Contingent rentals arising under operating leases are recognized as an expense in the period in which they are incurred.

In the event that lease incentives are received to enter into operating leases, such incentives are recognized as a liability. The aggregate benefit of incentives is recognized as a reduction of rental expense on a straight-line basis, except where another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern in which economic benefits from the leased asset are consumed.

f. Prepaid expenses

Prepaid expenses are amortized over their beneficial periods using the straight-line method.

g. Provision

A provision is recognized if, as a result of a past event, the Company and subsidiary has a present legal or constructive obligation that can be estimated reliably, and it is probable that an outflow of economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation. The amount recognized as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at the end of the reporting period, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation. Where a provision is measured using the cash flows estimated to settle the present obligation, its carrying amount is the present value of those cash flows.

A provision for product warranty is recognized when products are sold. The provision is estimated based on historical warranty claims and a weighing of all possibilities outcomes against their associated probabilities.

h. Employee benefits

The cost of providing benefits is determined using the projected unit credit method, with actuarial valuations being carried out at the end of each annual reporting period. Re-measurement, comprising actuarial gains and losses is reflected immediately in the statement of financial position with a charge or credit recognized in other comprehensive income in the period in which they occur. Re-measurement recognized in other comprehensive income will not be reclassified to profit or loss. Past service cost is recognized in profit or loss in the period of a plan amendment. Net interest is calculated by applying the discount rate at the beginning of the period to the net defined benefit liability or asset. Defined benefit costs are categorized as follows:

- Service cost (including current service cost, past service cost, as well as gains and losses on curtailments and settlements).
- Net interest expense or income.
- Re-measurement.

The Company and subsidiary presents the first two components of defined benefit costs in profit or loss. Curtailment gains and losses are accounted for as past service costs.

A liability for a termination benefit is recognized at the earlier of when the entity can no longer withdraw the offer of the termination benefit and when the entity recognizes any related restructuring costs.

i. Revenue recognition

Revenue from sales of products is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable, net of returns and trade discounts. Revenue is recognized when the significant risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to the customer, recovery of the consideration is probable, the associated costs and possible return of products can be estimated reliably, there is no continuing management involvement with the products and the amount of revenue can be measured reliably.

i. Revenue recognition (Continued)

The timing of the transfer of risks and rewards varies depending on the individual terms of the contract of sale. For sales of vehicles and spare parts, the transfer usually occurs when sales invoice is made.

j. Financial instruments

The Company and subsidiary's financial assets comprise cash in banks and cash equivalents, trade and other receivables, and refundable deposits (other current assets and other non-current assets) which are categorized as "Loans and receivables". Financial liabilities comprise short-term bank loan, trade payables, other payables, and accrued expenses (exclude product warranty and buy back guarantee) which are categorized as "Financial liabilities measured at amortized cost".

A financial instrument is recognized when the Company and subsidiary becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument. Financial assets are derecognized when the Company and subsidiary's contractual rights to the cash flows from the financial assets expire, i.e. when the asset is transferred to another party without retaining control, or when substantially all risks and rewards are transferred. Financial liabilities are derecognized if the Company and subsidiary's obligations expire, or are discharged or cancelled.

Financial assets that are categorized as loans and receivables are initially measured at fair value, plus any directly attributable transaction costs. Subsequent to initial measurement, they are carried at amortized cost, net of provision for impairment, if necessary. Amortized cost is measured by discounting the asset amounts using the effective interest rate, unless the effect of discounting would be insignificant. The effective interest rate is the rate that discounts expected future cash flows to the net carrying amount, on initial recognition. Interest effects from the application of the effective interest method are recognized in profit or loss.

An impairment provision is recognized for financial assets that are categorized as loans and receivables when there is objective evidence that the Company and subsidiary will not be able to recover the carrying amounts according to the original terms of the instrument. The amount of the impairment loss is the difference between the carrying amount of the financial asset and the present value of its estimated future cash flows, discounted at the original effective interest rate. Changes in the impairment provision are recognized in profit or loss.

Financial assets and financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are measured at fair value, changes therein are recognized in profit or loss. Transaction costs are recognized immediately in profit or loss as incurred.

Short-term bank loan, trade payables, other payables, and accrued expenses (exclude product warranty and buy back guarantee) are initially measured at fair value less any directly attributable transaction costs. Subsequent to initial measurement, these financial liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method.

Financial assets and liabilities are offset and the net amount is presented in the statement of financial position when there is a legal right of offset and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, or when the asset is realized and the liability settled simultaneously.

k. Impairment of non-financial assets

At the end of each reporting period, the Company and subsidiary reviews the carrying amount of non-financial assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have suffered an impairment loss. If any such indication exists, the recoverable amount of the asset is estimated in order to determine the extent of the impairment loss (if any). Where it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of an individual asset, the Company and subsidiary estimates the recoverable amount of the cash generating unit to which the asset belongs.

Estimated recoverable amount is the higher of fair value less cost to sell and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset for which the estimates of future cash flows have not been adjusted.

If the recoverable amount of the non-financial asset (cash generating unit) is less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset (cash generating unit) is reduced to its recoverable amount and an impairment loss is recognized immediately.

An impairment loss is reversed if there has been a change in the estimates used to determine the recoverable amount. An impairment loss is reversed only to the extent that the asset's carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined, net of depreciation or amortization, if no impairment loss had been recognized.

l. Transaction with related party

A related party is a person or entity that is related to the Company and subsidiary (the reporting entity):

- a. A person or a close member of that person's family is related to the reporting entity if that person:
 - i. has control or joint control over the reporting entity;
 - ii. has significant influence over the reporting entity; or
 - iii. is a member of the key management personnel of the reporting entity or of the parent of the reporting entity.
- b. An entity is related to the reporting entity if any of the following conditions applies:
 - i. The entity and the reporting entity are members of the same group (which means that each parent, subsidiary and fellow subsidiary is related to the others);
 - ii. One entity is an associate or joint venture of the other entity (or an associate or joint venture of a member of a group of which the other entity is a member);
 - iii. Both entities are joint ventures of the same third party;
 - iv. One entity is a joint venture of a third entity and the other entity is an associate of the third entity;
 - v. The entity is a post-employment benefit plan for the benefit of employees of either the reporting entity, or an entity related to the reporting entity. If the reporting entity is itself such a plan, the sponsoring employers are also related to the reporting entity;
 - vi. The entity is controlled, or jointly controlled, by a person identified in (a);
 - vii. A person identified in (a) (i) has significant influence over the entity or is a member of the key management personnel of the entity (or of a parent of the entity);
 - viii. The entity, or any member of a group of which it is a part, provides key management personnel services to the reporting entity or to the parent of the reporting entity.

m. Foreign currency transactions

Transactions in foreign currencies are translated to the Company and subsidiary's functional currency (Rupiah) at the rates of exchange prevailing at transaction date. Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated to the functional currency at the exchange rate at the reporting date. Foreign currency gains or losses on monetary items are comprised of the difference between amortized cost measured in the functional currency at the beginning of the period as adjusted for effective interest and payments during the period, and the amortized cost measured in foreign currency translated at the exchange rate at reporting date.

Non-monetary assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency that are measured at historical cost are translated using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction and are not retranslated.

m. Foreign currency transactions (Continued)

Foreign currency gains and losses on retranslation of monetary assets and liabilities that arise from operating activities are generally recognized in profit or loss.

n. Finance income and finance costs

Finance income comprises interest income on funds invested, and fair value gains on financial assets carried at fair-value-through-profit-or-loss.

Finance costs comprise interest expense on borrowings, and fair value losses on financial assets carried at fair-value-through-profit-or-loss.

Borrowing costs that are not directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of a qualifying asset are recognized in profit or loss using the effective interest method.

o. Income tax

Income tax expense comprises current and deferred corporate income tax. Current tax and deferred tax are recognized in profit or loss except to the extent that they relate to items recognized directly in equity or in other comprehensive income.

Current tax is the expected tax payable or refundable on taxable income or loss for the year, using tax rates substantively enacted as of the reporting date, and includes true-up adjustments made to the previous years' tax provisions either to reconcile them with the income tax reported in annual tax returns, or to account for differences arising from tax assessments. Current tax payable or refundable is measured using the best estimate of the amount expected to be paid or received, taking into consideration the uncertainty associated with the complexity of tax regulations.

Deferred tax is recognized in respect of temporary differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities for financial reporting purposes and the amounts used for taxation purposes. Deferred tax is measured at the tax rates that are expected to be applied to temporary differences when they reverse, based on the laws that have been enacted or substantively enacted as of the reporting date. This method also requires the recognition of future tax benefits, such as tax loss carry forwards, to the extent that realization of such benefits is probable.

Deferred tax assets are reviewed at each reporting date and are reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that the related tax benefit will be realized; such reductions are reversed when the probability of future taxable profits improves.

Unrecognized deferred tax assets are reassessed at each reporting date and recognized to the extent that it has become probable that future taxable profits will be available against which they can be used.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are offset when there is legally enforceable right to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when they relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority and the Company and subsidiary intends to settle its current tax assets and current tax liabilities on a net basis, or to realize the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously, in each future period in which significant amounts of deferred tax liabilities or assets are expected to be settled or recovered.

The defined benefit pension plan typically exposes the Company and subsidiary to actuarial risks such as interest rate risk and salary risk.

Interest risk

The present value of the defined benefits obligation is calculated using a discount rate that correlates with the yield on zero coupon government bonds that are traded in active capital markets at the reporting date. Decrease in the interest rate will increase the benefits obligation.

Salary risk

The present value of the defined benefits obligation is calculated by reference to the future salaries of plan participants. The salary increase rate is generally determined by applying inflation adjustments to pay scales, and by taking account of the length of service. Increase in the salary of the plan participants will increase the benefits obligation.

As of March 31, 2019 and 2018, the effect of 1% movement in assumed discount rate and salary incremental rate on present value of defined benefit obligation is as follows:

	March 31, 2019		March 31, 2018
	Increase Rp	Decrease Rp	Increase Rp	Decrease Rp
Discount rate	(338,621,000)	383,816,000	(337,081,000)	384,713,000
Salary incremental rate	414,752,000	(370,426,000)	389,722,000	(346,945,000)

This analysis provides an approximation of the sensitivity of the assumptions shown, but does not take account of the variability in the timing of the distribution of benefit payments expected under the plan.

Market risk

Market risk is the risk that changes in foreign exchange rates and interest rates will affect the Company and subsidiary's income or the value of its financial instruments. The objective of market risk management is to maintain market risk exposures within acceptable parameters, while optimizing the return.

Currency risk

Monetary liabilities arising from purchases of inventories from overseas suppliers expose the Company and subsidiary to fluctuating foreign exchange rates, from the currencies other than the Company and subsidiary's functional currency, primarily US Dollar. The Company and subsidiary manages this risk by buying or selling foreign currencies at spot rates, when necessary.

The Company and subsidiary's net exposure to currency risk is as follows:

AS OF AND FOR THE YEARS ENDED MARCH 31, 2019 AND 2018

24 FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AND FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT (Continued)

At reporting dates, balances of monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Rupiah using the prevailing exchange rates, which were Rp 14,244/US Dollar at March 31, 2019 and Rp 13,756/US Dollar at March 31, 2018.

A strengthening/weakening of the Rupiah, as indicated below, against the US Dollar at March 31, 2019 and 2018 would have increased (decreased) equity and profit or loss before income tax by the amounts shown below. This analysis is based on US Dollar rate variances that management considers as being reasonably possible at the reporting date. The analysis assumes that all other variables, in particular interest rates, remain constant and ignores any impact of forecasted sales and purchases.

	Impact on profit or loss before income tax / equity
	Rp
March 31, 2019:
2% strengthening of US Dollar	(979,224,732)
2% weakening of US Dollar	979,224,732

2% weakening of US Dollar	1,120,472,536

Interest rate risk

The subsidiary has a variable-rate bank loan. The subsidiary's variable-rate loan is exposed to fluctuation in cash flows due to changes in interest rate.

Cash flow sensitivity analysis for variable rate instruments

This analysis assumes that all other variables remain constant. The analysis is performed on the same basis for March 31, 2018.

	Impact on profit or loss before income tax / equity

	Rp	Rp
March 31, 2019:
